Practice Profile

Iain G Mitchell KC was called to the Scottish Bar in 1976, and took silk in 1992. He was called to the English Bar in 2012. He is accredited as a mediator by the Mediation Bureau (Scotland) and by Mediation Forum Ireland and often assists clients in Mediations. He is a member of the Scottish Council for International Arbitration and sat on the bench as a Temporary Sheriff from 1992 to 1997.

Iain is an experienced litigator with a wide and varied civil practice, with strengths in Business and Banking law, European Law, Public Procurement Law, Employment Law and Public Law, as well as being rated by Chambers Directory in Band 1 for Information Technology, and also recommended for Intellectual Property and Commercial Dispute Resolution.

He serves as the Chair of the Legal Panel of WhistleblowersUK and as the Honorary KC of OpenUK.

He has appeared in over 70 reported cases, including Moncrieff v Jamieson [2007] 1WLR 2620 (the leading modern case on easements) where he succeeded in definitively establishing the existence of an easement of parking in the laws of both Scotland and of England; Clarke v Fennoscandia Ltd 2008 SC (HL) 122, a case concerning the enforcement of foreign decree allegedly obtained fraudulently in the US Third Circuit, and involving issues of Scots, English, French, European, United States, and Colorado law, and King v Black Horse Ltd. [2024] CSIH 3 which has already established itself as a leading case in Consumer Protection law.

He has a particular strength in the area of Banking Law and Regulation, including cases of alleged mis-selling of Interest Rate Swap Agreements. He acted for the claimants in Grant Estates Ltd v Royal Bank of Scotland Ltd [2012] CSOH 133, and had continued to appear in many similar cases since.

His work is informed by extensive practical experience in business, the charitable and voluntary sectors, politics, and his keen interest in the arts and heritage. His sensitivity to commercial realities has frequently been commented upon and this, together with his substantial experience, enables him to develop innovative solutions, giving holistic advice which places the needs of clients in a wider commercial setting.
