Practice Profile

Peter called to the Bar in 1995 following a successful career as a solicitor. Whilst at Brodies WS, he acted for major landed estates in Scotland and represented breweries and cinema chains in liquor licensing. Peter's practice is chiefly concerned with property related litigation, of which he has extensive experience. In particular, he is well known for representing landlords and tenants in the Scottish Land Court in disputes involving the Agricultural Holdings and Crofting Act legislation. Peter also appears before the Lands Tribunal for Scotland. In 2003, he secured a record reduction of rent for an agricultural holding tenant in the high profile agricultural rent arbitration between Southesk Farms and Amber Agriculture.

Peter's personal injury practice provides advice on professional negligence and defamation. He also receives instructions in commercial and contract litigation.
